Greetings-

I am a recent full-stack web development graduate seeking opportunities to apply my newly earned web development knowledge and came across your site. I have been focusing on web and mobile development with React and ReactNative, as well as back end web development using Nodejs, Express and MongoDB.

This is a bit of a career change for me, but I have a long history of adding value and experience to a variety of projects and teams. I am extremely trainable in a variety of technologies and procedures, and able to quickly learn new things and apply them to solving the problem at hand.

I have attached my current resume for your review, and linked my Github Repo above. You can also find some examples of recent projects linked there as well. I am currently looking for a junior or entry-level role as a front or back end javascript developer, but would love to meet and hear about your specific needs and drive to best serve your client's needs.

Please feel free to call or contact me, and I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Don Barto, Jr
